

CHILEAN NAVY REBELS SURRENDER

FLYERS MAY BREAK SPEED MARKS

LOWELL BAYLES AND DOOLITTLE PLAN TO MAKE SPEED FLIGHTS

Attempts Will Open Final Program Of National Races

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 7.—With recent demonstrations pointing favorably toward success, attempts to shatter existing American land speed records for both men and women were carded at the national air races today.

Major James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, St. Louis, holder of the west-east transcontinental speed record, and Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., "human bullet," were to streak over a three-kilometer course for the men's record.

Maudie Tait, also of Springfield, Mass., and winner yesterday of the fifty-mile aerol trophy race, the high spot of the women's division in the air races program, was to fly the same course in an effort to lower the women's speed mark.

Plans piloted by each of the three records aspirants already have broken American records unofficially at the races.

All three attempts were scheduled to be staged early in the day and were to open the last and most spectacular day of the 1931 air races. A thrilling climax to the ten-day program was to come in the 100-mile Thompson trophy dash which headlined the afternoon program.

Eleven of the fastest planes ever constructed were entered in this feature event.

Each aspirant was to make two round trips over the three-kilometer straightaway course required for land plane speed record attempts. The average time for the four flights, two with and two against the wind, will be compared with the present marks.

The American land plane speed record is 266.59 miles per hour, held by Al Williams. It was set at Mineola, L. I., in 1923. The world mark of 278 miles per hour was established by the late adjutant Bonnet of France in 1924.

Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., holds the women's record of 210 miles per hour.

Bayles was to flash over the course in his Gee Bee Junior which has proved the sensation of the National Air Races. He attained a maximum speed of 287.058 miles per hour on one mile in this yellow and black plane last Tuesday. Yesterday, Robert Hall, Bayles' fellow-townsman, in the same ship, broke the air races speed record for a competitive event with an average speed of 222.823 miles per hour which won the mixed invitational twenty-five mile dash.

The tiny green and black Laird solution biplane in which Doolittle roared across the nation in eleven hours, fifteen minutes to shatter the mark of Captain Frank Hawks and win the Bendix dash, was to be used by the St. Louis racer in his attempt.

The attempt to break the women's record was to be made either in Bayles' super sportster or in the Gee Bee Y in which Miss Tait won the aerol dash yesterday at an average speed of 187.574 miles per hour over the fifty-mile route. Mae Hailzlip, St. Louis, was second in the aerol race, and Florence Klingensmith, Minneapolis, was third.

Two of the Thompson trophy racing ships were involved in accidents at the races yesterday. Walter Hunter, St. Louis, was severely burned about the face and hands when his travelator crashed and burned during a test flight. Hunter was expected to recover.

The landing gear of Ray Moore's Keith ryder mystery ship from San Francisco was damaged when Moore "panicked" after winning the men's 800-cubic inch free-for-all at 185.097 miles per hour. Moore was unhurt and the craft was expected to race today.

An unofficial altitude record for parachute jumping was set by Captain Bert White, Los Angeles, when he leaped from a plane at a height of approximately 27,000 feet. The old record was 24,800 feet.

Colonel T. J. Herbert of the Ohio National Guard won the Douglas trophy fifty-mile race from thirteen other entrants at an average speed of 141.955 miles per hour. Lieutenant E. G. Carlisle of Pennsylvania was second and Lieutenant Raymond Kutterer, Missouri, third.

SONNY WHITNEY AND HIS FIANCEE

A socially important union is near at hand with the approaching marriage of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, only son of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, widow of the multimillionaire sportsman, and Miss Gladys Crosby Hopkins. They are seen at the Saratoga, N. Y., races. Miss Hopkins is the debutante daughter of Mrs. Stevens Heck-scher of Strafford, Pa., and late Mark Hopkins, Jr.

RADIO SET "FADES"

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 7.—Not only a radio wave but a radio set, as well, can "fade out" completely.

Wayne Parsons, a local radio fan, can vouch for this statement.

He won a radio set as a prize at the Columbus radio show.

Placing it in his parked auto, he returned to the show. An hour later, he discovered that due to "interference," the set had faded out of sight.

Police are still searching for the thief.

MAY TRACE POWERS' IDENTITY TO ROMEO FATHER IS LEARNED

Believed Bluebeard Son Of West Virginia Couple

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 7.—The true identity of the West Virginia Bluebeard, the enigmatic character of four aliases, was sought today by authorities.

The latest "tip" as to the real name of Harry Powers, slayer of two widows and three children and perhaps many more unknown, was that he was Dayton Lowther, of Greene County, West Virginia.

An old resident of the county supplied the information which sent the police department into a lather of activity for it was believed that if the real name of the mail-order butcher can be discovered, the key to many hidden crimes may eventually be uncovered.

Here is the story of which corroboration was sought: Harry Powers is Dayton Lowther whose father and mother, even as their supposed son, engaged in the pursuit of romance through matrimonial correspondence through the mail.

The father signed his love-letters "Joe Gildaw," the very same name adopted by Powers in much of his correspondence when he lived in Miller, South Dakota, to a girl in Vanderbilt, Pa.

Powers, according to this unconfirmed story, left his home at the age of 14 years. Nothing was ever heard of him since. His father also used the name of Powers in his correspondence with women.

GLASS FACTORY IS SWEEPED BY FLAMES

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 7.—Investigation was started here today to determine the origin of a spectacular fire which swept through the box shop and lumber storage department of the Owens-Illinois Glass Co. early yesterday.

Damages estimated at $20,000 were done by the three-alarm fire. The Owens-Illinois concern manufactures milk bottles. Its headquarters are in Toledo. Approximately 200 men are employed at the local plant.

NEW CONDUCTOR

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 7.—Succeeding Rudolph Tschudi, Sam Freed Jr., of New York is to become guest conductor of the RKO Albee theater.

GROCERY ROBBED BY LONE BANDIT; SEVEN INTIMIDATED BY GUN

ROLL YOUR OWN

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 7.—"Roll your own" clubs may be formed here now that the new state tax on cigarets has become effective.

Dozens are reported to be using a "roll-your-own" machine placed on sale here. The machine is said to be selling like wild fire.

Many persons in this section thought of going to Kentucky for their cigarets, thereby escaping the tax, but they discovered that the crossing of a toll bridge would "eat up" their savings.

HOOVER'S HEART IN CRUSADE TO ASSIST JOBLESS SAYS DOAK

Problem To Restore Industry Will Be Solved Is Word

JOHNSON CITY, TENN., Sept. 7.—The great problem of today is the restoration of industry and consequent employment for the great majority of the people and it will eventually be solved by the American people, Secretary of Labor W. N. Doak declared today in an address at the Tri-State Appalachian fair.

"Today, of course, the great question to which we seek the answer is how to end the present depression and to supply work for all willing workers of America, many of whom are at present without the means of earning a livelihood," he said. "Unemployment is the greatest evil of our times and it is the duty of the government to relieve the present depressed condition of the people and to bring about the restoration of industry and employment."

"Many theories are advanced as to the cause of these recurring periods of economic trouble in the world's history. The definite answer probably has not yet been given. I wish to tell you that our Administration in Washington is doing all that is humanly possible to relieve the present depressed industrial conditions. All efforts to improve the unemployment situation in the United States have had the sympathetic and strong support of President Hoover. My heart is in this crusade of restoration and I believe that as a crusader he will bring the country to the temple of its desire."

Doak's employment was the keynote of labor's structure. The principal aim of the Labor Department is to keep labor and employment as continuous partners, he said, declaring that "the endeavors are continuous even if the results are not constant, because results depend largely upon conditions in communities and in the country at large."

No bureau of the Department can create jobs, and all that can be done is to seek out the jobless and the available jobs and put them in touch with each other.

Referring to law enforcement Doak said that it was unfortunate that some individuals and associations had attacked our system of law enforcement as unreasonable.

"In many instances they are not those with the cleanest hands," he declared. "We find in many cases these so-called 'saviors of the downtrodden' have been dripping from their greedy talons the blood of the poor, drawn from them by force, threats or intimidation, extorted by methods so repugnant to common decency that the stench arising therefrom reaches to the heavens."

"There are certain of our people who are more interested in the protection of grafters and racketeers engaged in alien smuggling, and in the protection against apprehension of illegal and communal aliens by our immigration authorities than they are in seeing that the foreign-born who have legally entered the country are guaranteed justice and a square deal."

"We have found that prices have been paid ranging from $100 to $5,000 to smuggle an alien into America. In addition thereto, we have found cases after case where pure, unadulterated extortion was resorted to for alleged protection to aliens illegally in this country."

"Warrants of deportation have been illegally obtained and almost every kind of graft has been resorted to in order to make money out of aliens desiring to come to America."

He said the Department was making every effort to stamp out these practices.

WOMAN HELD IN MURDER PROBE

Accused Of Murder Of Brother

BOWLING GREEN, O., Sept. 7.—With Mrs. Blanche Halsey, 67, charged with first degree murder in connection with the crime, authorities today continued their investigation into the shooting of the woman's brother, Fred Bonham, 64, who was found dead in bed at his home last Friday morning.

Bonham's death was at first believed to have been suicide but examination revealed that he had been shot in the back of the head. The fatal shot was lodged in such a position that it could not have been self-inflicted, authorities declared.

Questioned by police, Mrs. Halsey at first contended that her brother committed suicide. She later told officers that she had entered Bonham's room carrying a shotgun and that it discharged accidentally.

Police said they had learned the couple had recently quarreled over financial matters.

PLAN ACTION TO FORCE PASSPORT

AKRON, O., Sept. 7.—A habes corpus action in an attempt to obtain a passport for Paul Kassay to return to Hungary may be started by Mrs. Yetta Land of Cleveland, Kassay's attorney.

Kassay was indicted last spring on a charge of criminal syndicalism in connection with alleged sabotage on the Zepplin Akron but was freed when the law was ruled unconstitutional. Kassay later was denied a passport when he sought to leave this country.

PROBE DEAD FISH

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 7.—Investigation will be started here tomorrow by representatives of the state board of health into the finding of hundreds of dead fish in the Ohio River, it was expected today. The fish, it was expected, had been poisoned by industrial wastes emptied into the river.

LEAGUE WANTS MEXICO

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—An invitation to Mexico to join the League of Nations was extended to that country shortly after the assembly of the league met for its annual session today.

GRAF BACK HOME

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 7.—Completing her ninth successful trans-Atlantic crossing the Graf Zeppelin returned to Friedrichshafen today landing at 3:45 p. m. after an uneventful flight from Pernambuco, Brazil.

AUTO KILLS VETERAN

DAYTON, O., Sept. 7.—Samuel Steele, 41, World War veteran, was dead today from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile while walking across a street in west Dayton. Merrell Brown, driver of the automobile, was held for questioning following the accident.

Obtains Between $65 And $75 At Kroger Store Saturday

Intimidating the manager, two clerks and four customers with an automatic, a lone bandit staged a successful hold-up at a Kroger grocery at 525 W. Main St., at 9:25 o'clock Saturday night and escaped after rifling the cash register of between $65 and $75.

Manager Ted I. Clellan, two clerks, Miss Lucille Rumbaugh and Lewis Cost, and four customers, three of them women, were in the grocery when the bandit entered.

Armed with a 32 or 38 caliber automatic and his face partly concealed by a red bandana handkerchief, the man introduced himself as "California Jack" and said he "meant business."

The robber ordered "hands up" and when his command was obeyed at once, forced the manager to hand over the contents of the cash register. After obtaining the money, the bandit made his exit from the store and was seen by passersby to run down an alley toward W. Second St.

The store manager immediately notified police headquarters but despite an intensive search, the fugitive evaded capture.

Manager Clellan had removed most of the day's receipts from the register and deposited the money in a secret hiding place shortly before the robber's entrance.

According to a description furnished police, the bandit was about five feet, six inches in height, weighed 150 pounds, had a ruddy complexion and wore a brown suit and dark cap.

Customers in the grocery at the time of the hold-up were Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Ed Hunt, Mrs. Kenneth Elliott and George Bradley.

MET HER SLAYER THROUGH BUREAU

Admission of Harry Powers, Clarkburg, W. Va., "Bluebeard," that he reached the scores of women with whom he corresponded through the American Friendship Society of Detroit, has recalled that Mrs. Bruckmeyer Downey of Detroit was slain by her second husband whose she met through the same matrimonial bureau, at Miami, last January. Downey later committed suicide. Photo shows Mrs. Downey and her three children.

Tribute To Labor Paid By Secretary Of Labor Doak

By WILLIAM N. DOAK
Secretary of Labor
(Written Expressly for I. N. S.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—On this holiday set aside to celebrate labor and the contribution it has made to the development of our nation, we pay tribute to the men and women of labor whose heads and hands have wrought the needs of mankind and to improving the social life of their communities.

At this time we are facing many difficult problems arising from the world-wide industrial depression through which we are passing, but which we can confidently say has affected our country less seriously than any other industrial nation on earth.

While all may well rejoice over the productive accomplishments which have come from the united efforts of workers and employers in this country, there is a greater cause for rejoicing over the new understanding which has come to pass in recent years between employers and employees.

We find that there is now a stronger bond of cooperation which makes for greater unity of effort, good will and mutual respect. This desired condition exists to a marked degree generally even in these times when perplexing economic questions resulting from world conditions and changing methods of production are making themselves felt throughout the country.

It should be a privilege on this Labor Day for the whole nation again to pledge its fullest interest in the work to promote the well-being of the working men and women. All of us should have the confidence to believe that the advancement of our workers' aims and desires greatly will aid in promoting the welfare of this land and of all the people who toll within its borders.

HALF-HOLIDAY

THE afternoon editions of THE GAZETTE are published at noon Monday to permit employees a Labor Day half holiday.

The practice follows an annual custom. The change in press time will not affect publication of the morning edition.

REVOLT FAILS WHEN NAVY CAPITULATES RESULT OF WARNING

Bombardment By Air Subdues Revolters; Capital Happy

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7.—The revolt of the Chilean navy, which for a time threatened to plunge the country into a sanguinary civil war, came to an end shortly after midnight this morning with unconditional surrender by the rebels according to word received here from Santiago.

The rebels capitulated, the reports stated, immediately after General Carlos Vergara, in charge of operations at Coquimbo, sent a warning to the mutinous fleet that the government's 100 airplanes would launch a second attack upon them shortly.

With a number of their vessels damaged by the first bombardment yesterday, the rebels then agreed to unconditional surrender, although early reports had told of one brief show of resistance during which a federal airplane was shot down in flames.

Shortly after 4 o'clock (2 a. m. E. S. T.), a communique was read which stated that the mutineers had capitulated and that the revolt was at an end, the dispatches said.

The announcement was greeted with riotous cheers, and the population formed itself into processions which paraded through the streets.

The wild demonstrations continued until long after dawn. Unofficial organs extolled the government's strong stand against the rebels and the name of General Vergara to the echo.

MORE THAN SEVENTY ASTRONOMERS MEET AT OHIO WESLEYAN

Program Planned To Entertain Group At Delaware

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 7.—More than seventy of the leading astronomers of the United States are here for the forty-sixth meeting of the American Astronomical Society to be held September 7, 8, 9 at Perkins Observatory of Ohio Wesleyan University.

The opening session is scheduled for this afternoon and will be followed by a reception and inspection trip through Perkins Observatory.

Visiting astronomers will be taken on an automobile tour Tuesday afternoon going first to Columbus to visit Ohio State University and then to Newark and Granville to see the Indian mounds and Denison University. The society dinner will be held at the Granville Inn Tuesday evening.

Final sessions of the society for the presentation of papers will be held Wednesday morning and afternoon.

Dr. Ernest W. Brown of Yale University, an authority in the field of celestial mechanics, is president of the American Astronomical Society. The vice-presidents are Dr. Robert C. Atken of the Lick Observatory, Mt. Hamilton, Cal., and Dr. Joel Stebbins of the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Atken has discovered more than 3,000 double stars and has been awarded the Lalande prize by the Academy of Sciences of France for his work in this field. Dr. Stebbins has been awarded the Rumford premium of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the Draper medal of the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. R. S. Dugan of Princeton University is secretary of the society and Benjamin Boss, director of Dudley Observatory, Albany, N. Y., treasurer.

Papers covering a wide range of astronomical interests have been listed for presentation during the three-day program. Members of the staff of the Dearborn Observatory of Northwestern University will present reports on their observations of Eros, minor planet which this year came closer to the Earth than has any other known astronomical body except the moon and meteors.

Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, director of Perkins Observatory, will present a paper on the construction of the 69-inch telescope, installation of which will be completed at Ohio Wesleyan this year.

A report on the solar eclipse to occur during 1932 will be given by Dr. Frederick Slocum, Wesleyan University. Absorption of radiation in space will be discussed by Dr. E. F. Carpenter of the University of Arizona. The displacement of the meridian by land tides caused by the moon's pull on the earth will be the subject of a paper presented by Dr. M. F. Jordan of the University of Maine.

Dr. N. T. Bobrovnikoff of Perkins Observatory will present a paper on the origin of minor planets. Fifteen or twenty other papers will be read also.

Queen of Plenty

Reigning over the Farmers' Week pageant, "Horn of Plenty," at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Miss Sara Choate of Paragould, Ark., symbolized Arkansas comeback from last year's food famine. She was chosen queen because she made the highest score in 4-H club team demonstration contests.

TELLING the WORLD'S NEWS with PICTURES

War-Time Premier and Family

This is the latest photograph taken of David Lloyd George, famous leader of England's Liberal party and Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury from 1915 to 1922, in the bosom of his family. The picture shows the war-time Premier on the veranda of his home at Churt, England, with Mrs. Lloyd George and their daughter, Megan. Lloyd George was 68 years old last January and has undergone a severe operation for kidney trouble. His failing health has caused concern for some time.

New First Lady

Here is the charming Mrs. Martin S. Conner, wife of Mississippi's Governor-elect, who takes office January 1. Mrs. Conner and her husband are extremely popular throughout the State. He is forty years old and a farmer-lawyer.

Adept Pupil

Exactly two hours and twenty-seven minutes after taking her first instructions, Charlotte Hodgkinson (above) astonished everyone but herself when she "soloed" at Curtiss Field, L. I. Charlotte says she wasn't a bit nervous and her instructor added that she handled the plane like a veteran.

LIGHTING UP THE OLD PIPE TO BEAT CIGARETTE TAX

Just as a matter of protest against the two-cent cigarette tax, in Ohio, members of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity, St. Clairsville, O., have dug out their old corn-cob pipes and for the next 30 days intend to puff away. Photo shows a group of the brothers in session with their pipes.

Slain or Suicide?

Here's the first published photo of Hisashi Fujimura, wealthy Japanese importer, who vanished mysteriously during the "show boat" cruise of the S. S. Belgeland from New York to Nova Scotia and return. He is shown with his daughter, Tasiko. Officials of Japan, England and the U. S. have investigated the strange case which may either be murder or suicide, but tangible results are lacking.

Plucky Ruth Flies Again

Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, who was seriously injured when her Lockheed plane crashed in landing at St. Johns, N. B., is shown with her technical advisor, Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, at Floyd Bennett field, New York, where she made her first reappearance as a flier after her accident. Dauntless Ruth took a short solo hop over the airport and plans to conquer the Atlantic soon.

Star Gazing

Imported from England, completes her third American picture—Miss Nichols playing a heroine.

Will It Come to This?

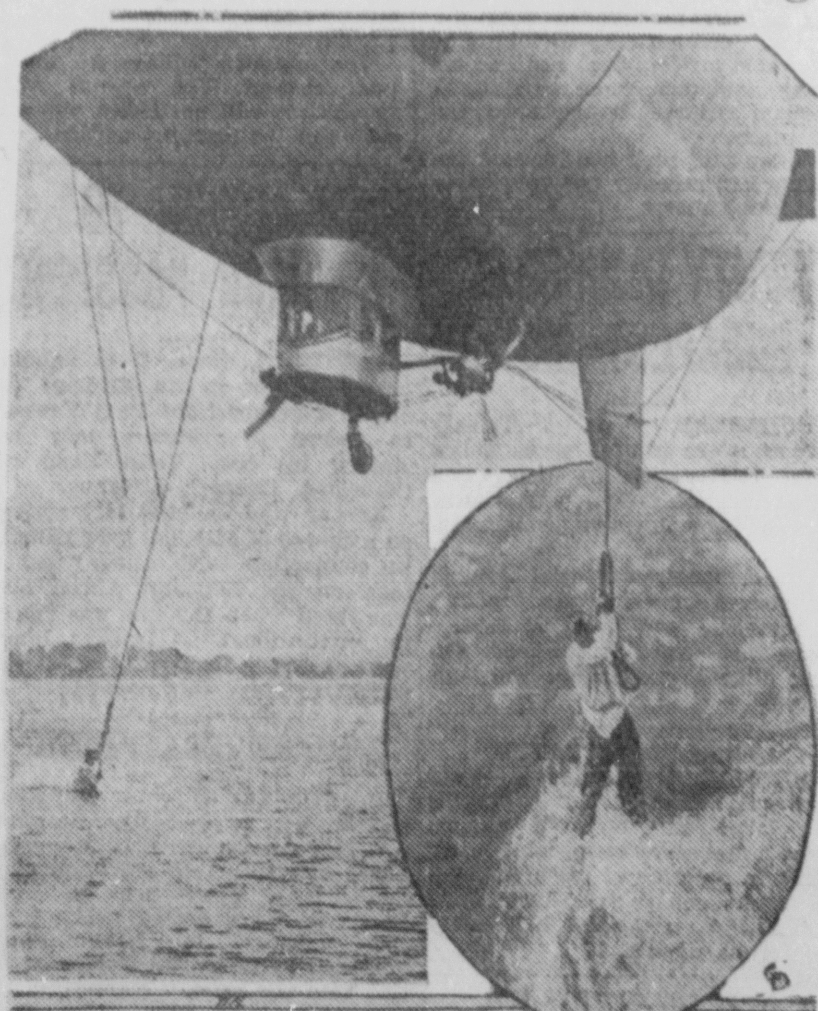

Up in arms, boys! Look what Paris is wishing on our fair ones. When the Empress Eugenie hat was introduced, we just had to accept it. But are we going to stand for this? Ten million nos! Paris fashion experts say that if our ladies want to be right up to the minute this winter they'll be dressed in Eugenie ensembles as shown recently at Deauville, where this picture was made.

Royal Aerial Honeymooners

Nothing like modernism on a honeymoon is apparently the theory of Princess Ileana of Rumania and her new husband, Archduke Anton. They've been touring Europe in their plane piloted by the royal bridegroom and are here shown arriving in England to visit friends.

Blimps Turn to Life-Saving

To what new uses blimps and dirigibles can be put is entirely up to the ingenuity of man. A blimp being flown over Long Island recently proved that as an aid to life-saving there wasn't anything much better. To test its value, Byron Hardy, an expert swimmer, swam far out from shore. At a given signal the blimp flew out to where Hardy was "struggling" for life. Within a few minutes a line was tossed to the swimmer and he was hauled aboard in the manner illustrated.

Meet "Miss Dixie"

Nineteen and brunette, Sydna Anderson was selected as "Miss Dixie" in the first southern beauty pageant staged at Pensacola, Fla. Sydna was one of 19 girls competing for honors and represented Montgomery, Ala., in the parade of vulchritude.

Follies Girl in Jam Again

Just because she happens to know "Tough Willie" McCabe (right) the rude New York police arrested and questioned Hilda Ferguson (left), former featured Follies girl. Hilda says she doesn't know a thing about the fight in a Gotham speakeasy during which McCabe, notorious gambler, was stabbed several times, but the rude police think differently. An even ruder Judge held Hilda in $5,000 bail as a material witness.

CAPITAL BEAUTY PARIS HOSTESS

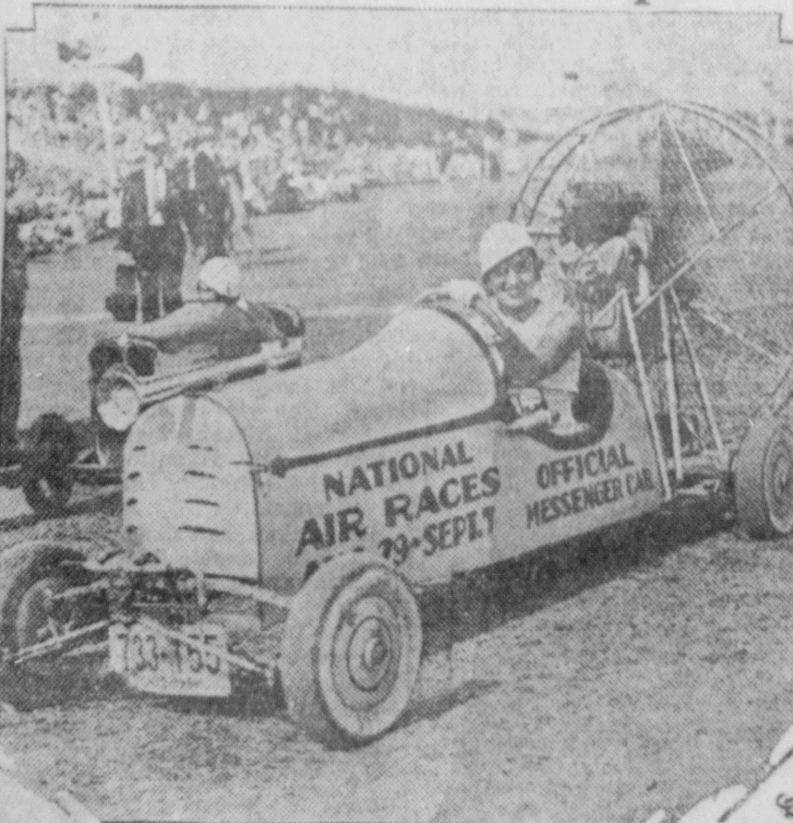

Among the society girls who have been asked to act as hostesses at the French Colonial Exposition, in Paris, this summer, is Miss Dorothy Nicholson, above, of Washington, D. C., who makes her debut in Washington and Baltimore society in November. She is considered to be one of the most beautiful capital subjects.

Maybe Yes! Maybe No!

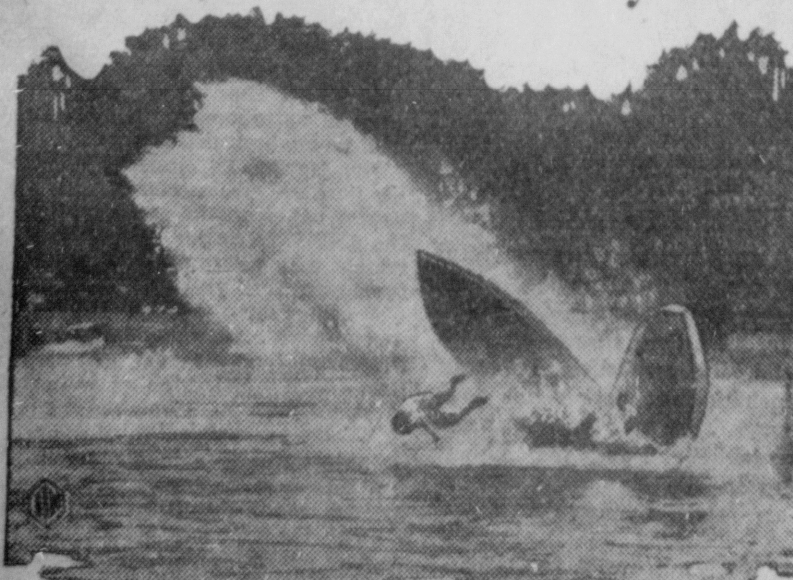

When asked upon their arrival in New York from France if they intended to wed, Constance Bennett, of film fame, and the Marquis de la Falaise were non-committal. The Marquis, or "Hank," as he is known in Hollywood, is the husband of Gloria Swanson, who recently divorced him there. The decree doesn't become final until October. Maybe the wedding bells will then ring for Connie and Hank.

Ruth Takes to New Sport

Ruth Elder, who nearly was successful in her attempt to fly across the Atlantic, appears at the National Air Races at the Cleveland airport in her new windmobile. In private life pretty Ruth is the wife of Walter Camp, Jr., son of the famous sports authority.

C-r-a-s-h! An Involuntary Bath!

Here's a remarkable picture of a crash of two speedboats during the trials in the President's Cup regatta on the Potomac at Washington, D. C. Hunter Grimes is shown hurtling from his craft as two of the speedsters collided. He was slightly injured.

DAIRY PRODUCTS

NEEDED IN DIET
A diet of meat, bread, and potatoes does not furnish all the nutrients required by the human body. It is particularly lacking in calcium (lime) and some of the vitamins. These deficiencies can readily be overcome by the liberal use of dairy products, particularly of milk, says W. E. Krauss, nutrition specialist in the Dairy Department of the Ohio Experiment Station.

A complete diet must furnish enough energy, protein, minerals, and vitamins for the normal life processes. Milk alone is not an economical source of energy, but butter is. The proteins of milk and cheese are of an exceptionally high quality and should be liberally used to meet the body's protein requirement.

Of the minerals required, milk and cheese furnish, particularly, calcium (lime) and phosphorus. Since these two minerals are concerned with proper bone formation, the need for adequate amounts of milk in the diet of growing children becomes apparent. Milk contains all the vitamins, but in varying quantities, depending largely upon the ration fed the cow. However, under no ordinary conditions is milk a good source of vitamins B and D. The various concentrated milks, like condensed milk and evaporated milk, retain practically all of the original properties of the milk from which they were made. It is recommended that children receive the equivalent of one quart of milk a day and adults the equivalent of one pint. This does not mean that the milk must be taken as a drink but that it may be used in various forms in food for the table.

NEST-BUILDING CAT
NEW HAVEN, Conn.—A nest-building cat turned up at the home of William S. Holmes, 42 Boers St. In a tree many feet above the door yard the cat built its nest and had a litter of kittens. Daily the cat descended for its meals, and always returned to the nest. Then it had to teach the kittens how to reach the ground.

TURNED BUILDINGS DARK
NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Waterproofing material applied to the walls of the great Memorial Quadrangle group at Yale, at a cost of $15,000, is being removed. The solution caused the granite blocks of which the quadrangle is built to turn so dark that it was feared the structures would become a deep black.

BAN ON STANDS
CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 7.—Out of the county lunch stands will be banned at the 1931 Cincinnati pumpkin show, the directors have ruled. Complaints from the local residents, restaurants, churches and lodges were made. The show will be held Oct. 7 to 10.

MICHIGAN WARS ON STATE MATRIMONIAL SOCIETIES

Ladies' Descriptions

1279-23-5 ft., 5 1/2 in.—127-A Chicago—Stenographer, very good looking, with brown hair and hazel eyes, has high school education, rather attractive and kind natured. Would like to get acquainted with an honest and good-natured man with a desire for true love and home comforts. I have never been married and live at home with my parents. I have high ideals and clean morals. Write and learn more. My picture can be seen at the club.

Cupid will receive a mortal blow in Michigan, if Governor Wilber M. Brucker succeeds in ridding the state of matrimonial societies, such as the American Friendship society, through which Harry F. Powers, Clarksburg, W. Va.,

"Bluebeard" met his victims. Above, at right, is the reception room of the Berry Social club, at Detroit, which is to be investigated by state authorities. Below, descriptions of women seeking husbands, published in the society's circular; lower right, Lorenzo O. Berry, head of the club. At left is a photograph of one of the members. Similar pictures of most of those seeking mates line the walls of the clubhouse of this social club.

NEW TREASURER TO ASSUME POSITION

Harold Van Pelt, who will take office Tuesday as treasurer of Greene County, 2 position he will occupy for two years, has filed bond of $30,000. He succeeds Miss Helen Dodds, who has completed two consecutive terms of two years each.

Harry M. "Atlas" Smith, former Paintersville grocer and prominent American Legion worker, will also assume his new duties Tuesday as chief deputy treasurer, and has posted $10,000 bond.

One extra clerk is employed the year around in the treasurer's office and two clerks are hired about four months out of the year during tax collection periods, but the new treasurer said he is not ready to announce his clerk appointments.

WHEAT SLUMP AIDS BIRDS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 5.—Low wheat prices are helping birds in Pennsylvania, according to reports reaching the State Game Commission. Because of unprecedented low prices, many wheat farmers of the state are letting grain stand in the fields where it will be available to birds as a food supply.

All over America

these steps are being taken in the war against Unemployment

DO not think of unemployment in terms of millions of people out of work in this broad land of America.

Think of unemployment as a few people out of work within a stone's throw of you—your own neighbors. Maybe one, or maybe two out of every twenty in your vicinity. That, after all, is the unemployment problem.

Put those persons back to work and that ends the unemployment problem in your vicinity. Don't worry about other communities. They will take care of their problem in the same way . . . in fact are doing so, in every part of the United States.

The Government Is Doing Its Part
The Government is speeding up its program of public works, wherever this is possible. That means people are going back to work.

Communities Are Doing Their Part
Local governments are advancing projects, and hastening useful enterprises of every sort . . .

getting work started . . . now. That means people are going back to work.

Now What About You?

Now, for instance, is the time to make additions, improvements, repairs, to have odd jobs done around your home . . . to increase the worth of your property while materials are low priced . . . to increase the country's buying power . . . to give a neighbor a job.

Study the 100 suggestions that are listed here. Then get busy and give a neighbor a job.

Do this, and you are doing as patriotic a thing as any man can do. You are doing a constructive thing, a profitable thing, and a friendly thing.

YOU ARE GIVING WORK TO SOME ONE WHO IS READY TO GIVE YOU OUTSTANDING RETURN FOR YOUR INVESTMENT.

The only useful money is money at work. Put some of yours to work . . .

Put a Neighbor to work

100 Jobs

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The Lord is known by the judgment which he executeth: the wicked is snared in the work of his own hands.—Psalms ix, 16.

OUR LABOR DAY

It is one of the greatest achievements of America, that it has established the full dignity of labor. While philosophers have always cherished that idea, it is not universally accepted, and it was not at all general previous to recent times.

In Europe today, people who engage in trade or business or who work with their hands, are looked at with a certain condescension. People of social standing look down on their associates who do such kinds of work. American sentiment has always said that idea was false, and that any useful labor is creditable and ennobling. Other countries have encouraged large elements of people to live in idleness. America says that everyone should work, and that even if people inherit money, they will be happier and more valued in the community if they fit themselves for useful service, and carry on some kind of effort.

The Labor day holiday voices this sentiment, and says that everyone should have his share of the toils of the community. If people have all the money they need, there are plenty of civic and philanthropic causes into which they can throw their energy.

This sentiment is so widespread, that few young people come up today, even in the homes of the wealthy, without preparing to go out in the world as workers. Idlers are unhappy in these times.

Unfortunately a considerable number of boys and young men are growing up, who have conceived the idea that they can get money without work. By crooked tricks and acts of violence, they think they can beat the universal law of Labor. Would that some voice to which they would listen, some teacher or preacher or good friend, would tell them the true meaning of Labor day, that America has no rewards of happiness or welfare for those who seek to dodge the responsibilities of toil.

STIMSON CHEERFUL

Secretary Stimson said before setting sail for the United States, that he was returning home much encouraged by the way the executive officials of the countries he had visited were making progress toward the solution of their difficulties. "The European countries seem to have developed better understanding, and I am sure there is real determination among them to face the position that menaces Europe and find adequate solution in the friendliest way," said the secretary. "One thing that impressed me is the growth of the spirit of good will among the European nations, and that is why I am returning home with a spirit of hope and optimism."

This is a more cheerful picture than the world gets at times from unofficial and "foreign correspondent" tongues and pens, and it is valuable because it comes from a person who is a close, accurate observer and has had some unusual opportunities for study of the continental situation. Moreover, Mr. Stimson provided a logical reason for the development of the better understanding and increase of friendship he has observed when he said:

"It was my privilege to meet the Foreign Ministers of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, as well as high officials and the executive heads, and we had a chance to talk matters over. Better still, we became personally acquainted, and that is a great thing in the present state of the world. It is my profound view that these personal meetings with the representatives of different countries must lead to an enormous amount of good, and I believe in them thoroughly. I feel better equipped for my own duties, for I have a better knowledge of these European problems."

Probably there never was as much direct personal contact among the leading statesmen and responsible government heads of the civilized nations as there has been since the close of the World War. If the various conferences inspired by Lloyd George during the years of his premiership did nothing else, they created a habit of face to face conversation for the settlement of international troubles, which has been of lasting advantage and value. In recent months the premiers and foreign ministers and finance ministers of Europe have traveled from capital to capital in an almost informal way for the purpose of conference; and the result has been highly advantageous, and probably has preserved the world from much avoidable trouble. Close intercourse among persons of insight and intellect who can see beyond their noses and understand how the welfare of one nation depends on the welfare of others so that the whole world is interlocked, is a better augury of peace than any formal disarmament or anti-war gathering could be.

QUICK RISE TO FAME

It used to take a long time for anyone to get his name before the public. Today some of our young successes in aviation attain fame in a few weeks. A few years ago or less, they may have been mechanics working in some garage, or unknown airplane pilots. Then perhaps they succeeded with some adventurous stunt, and are acclaimed all over the country. Their courage and skill win fame and fortune in a day. The spectacle of this quick rise to fame makes many of the boys restless. It makes them discontented with digging at some tedious job that only pays them a trifling sum.

It takes exceptional skill and science for people to perform any stunt that will attract attention in these fast times. The ordinary run of young men will have to grub along the same old toilsome path. But if they are observant and intelligent, this day of rapid advance gives them far better chances than formerly.

Now is the time when the person who has accumulated a fine coat of tan, by close attention to the business of dressing like Gandhi, has to come home and forget it.

What chance is there to thaw frozen assets in the winter time after they have defied liquification all through the heated term?

The new comet took one look at things in this vicinity and turned tail and started away for parts unknown.

MY NEW YORK

—BY JAMES ASWELL—

VIENNA.—It was necessary to wake a stout, peasantish little man in faded blue denim jacket and dusty beret, sprawled all over the compartment of the Munich-Vienna train this morning.

He seemed to relish the intrusion little. And for an hour we played a familiar Continental game. Europeans have a weakness for hermetically sealed rooms. As fast as he would shut the compartment window tight, one of us would sneak an inch or two of fresh air after the stuffiness became intolerable. At last he rubbed his two-day stubble of beard, glared more sullenly than ever, arose and went out—to return not long afterwards a new man. He was shaven. He was smiling. His disreputable jacket had been replaced by a natty tweed coat. He entered into gay conversation with us at once.

He was, it developed, a Hungarian attorney, homeward-bound from Paris. Budapest was the liveliest, the liveliest, the most livable city in all Europe. There were the most beautiful women, the greatest courtesies, the deepest love for Americans. Why were we so stupid as to be stopping off in Vienna? Come to Budapest and he would make our stay an unbroken fiesta. He regretted speaking so little English, but with a little French here and there we could get along. Would we mind it if the window were closed on account of the chill? It was a pity, speaking only five languages and little if any English—which he read, however, brilliantly.

PREDICTIONS

Certainly there would be another war—and soon. France, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Roumania would fight Germany, Austria, Hungary, England and Italy. He would not commit himself on the United States—about which we ought to know better than he. He was principal owner of a powerful newspaper of Budapest and had printed such predictions already. They could not be questioned.

What political parties owned the papers for which we wrote? Was it not customary for all newspapers to espouse political figures? Why else should they exist? We must come to Budapest. There newspapers were lively with politics; the people were awake to political concerns. A friend of his had, just the other day, refused to allow a plumber to work in his house because the plumber was a member of the opposition.

A MOUNTAIN CLOUD BURST

Mountain thunder storms frequently become very treacherous. As they sweep across bridges or sometimes taking the lives of campers miles below the place of the storm. Up the mountain side the up-driven convective air current that built the thunder cloud becomes so vigorous that it resists the falling of the raindrops for a time until it weakens, letting the accumulated rain all come down at once as if millions of buckets of water had been overturned at the same moment. As a result the mountain side is deluged; the waters rush down the gulch like a great tidal wave.

BABES IN THE WOODS—1931

UPROAR IN CONGRESS PREDICTED IN DEBATE OVER WORLD BANKERS

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON.—Charges of a plan, or a plot, or whatever other name one may choose to call it by, engineered by a little group of international financiers, to secure control over the whole world, or, as some alarmists say, to consolidate a control which the group already has secured over most of it, are sure to be made in rich protest when congress meets next winter.

Preliminary mutterings are to be heard now, but thus far they are not loud enough to attract much attention. Individual interviews and statements naturally are nothing like as effective as a grand oratorical chorus, and that must wait until the lawmakers assemble in formal session.

Two or three stories have been circulated in recent months, which, if one accepts them seriously and considers them collectively, really do hint at a decided community of interests and unity of endeavor among the money kings of several different countries—the U. S. A. included.

For example, very lately, it will be recalled, when the London government found itself pinched for ready cash and appealed to American bankers for help, the British working class organ, "The Labor Herald," asserted that the Federal Reserve board was prompt to veto the transaction, except upon the terms of a substantial cut in the dole to the English unemployed.

Whereupon Sir Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, being interrogated, answered, in effect, "What of it?"—quite as if the idea of this sort of dictation by Uncle Sam to John Bull did not even surprise him.

Moreover, as we know, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald went the length of breaking with his party in parliament, in all likelihood sacrificing the remainder of his public career, to take the necessary steps toward reducing the dole, as a sequel to which England did, indeed, get the funds it required—$200,000,000 from the United States and as much more from France.

"The Labor Herald" yelled bloody murder, despite Sir Montagu Norman's seeming indifference, at what it denounced as Yankee interference in British government affairs.

Americans probably will take the view that those who make loans are entitled to make conditions with the borrowers.

It is another matter, however, it is contended by various American critics of the bargain, reduction of the dole was insisted on by the bankers who advanced the $200,000,000. Not because bankers were greatly concerned as to that particular item in the British budget, but because they wanted to counteract the growing sentiment in favor of unemployment insurance in the United States—and hoped to do it by making the dole look like a national calamity in England.

Did Sir Montagu Norman understand this perfectly? Did that account for his non-chalant "What of it?"—with "The Labor Herald" throwing fits on his doorstep, at the thought of American domination over the Ramsay MacDonald regime?

We know with certainty only that English big money, for which Sir Montagu pre-eminently is the spokesman, always did oppose the dole.

Incidentally, it should not be forgotten that last spring, when Sir Montagu was in New York and Washington, he was reported to have remarked what a fine thing it would be for Europe if wages were sharply slashed on this side of the Atlantic. Having wages so high here, he was said to have pointed out, made it exceedingly difficult for old world employers to make their workers see reason.

And, in fact, there did very shortly ensue a vigorous campaign of education (or propaganda) by American bankers, dwelling upon the desirability of getting the cost of labor down to the post-1929 level of commodity prices, in order to re-stimulate industry generally.

American banking having been so responsive to his suggestion, it is comprehensible that Sir Norman may have felt bound to return courtesy for courtesy in connection with the dole proposition.

Perhaps it is far-fetched; nevertheless, next winter's protest inevitably will be based upon the theory that there is international banking co-operation in all this—a pay cut here, a dole reduction there, a bit of anti-strike restriction some other place; the whole thing working toward the ultimate end of strictly limited control of the entire earthly mechanism of production, and as absolute as possible.

As for dictation, such as "The Labor Herald" complains of, "dictation" simply is a word, anyway, with quite a variety of interpretations.

When a big country's high finance talks turkey to a wee country, like Nicaragua or Haiti, that's dictation, unquestionably. Between folk like the money monarchs of New York and London and Paris, yes, and Berlin (though the Berliners are temporarily embarrassed), it's negotiation—the amenities are observed; no one's feelings are hurt.

Acne Victim Must Avoid Sweets

—BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.—

General bodily conditions undoubtedly have something to do with the causation of acne.

For the patient's sake, however, it should be remembered that this idea can be much exaggerated. When a severe case is seen people say—"My! his blood must be in an awful condition," or "Goodness! that fellow has allowed himself to get terribly run down," or "He must lead a very dissipated life." The fact is the disease has nothing to do with blood disease in any acceptance of that term. (Diabetes sometimes have it, but diabetes is not a disease of the blood, strictly speaking.) And furthermore the acne patient probably eats much more abstemiously and pays better attention to the condition of the bowels than three-quarters of his critics.

He has to in order to keep the skin condition within bounds. Most patients have found that out. If they eat a meal or two of rich foods, or indulge in alcoholic excess, the skin always shows it. And to that extent general measures of systemic treatment are helpful.

The diet should avoid sweets, desserts and pastries. Also irritants and condiments, such as alcohol, chocolate, spiced foods, and rich meats. Vegetables and fruits and bulky foods should form the staple of the diet, because these also tend to keep the bowels open. Foods not allowed are: ice cream, sodas, candy, rich gravies and pastries.

Foods to be avoided are: starches, such as potatoes, spaghetti, noodles and white bread. Vegetables recommended are: eggplant (stewed or grilled), cucumber (baked), brussels sprouts, vegetable marrow, carrots (young), dandelion greens, Swiss chard, onions (boiled), mushrooms, parsnips, tomatoes, spinach, artichokes, parsnips, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, kohlrabi, oyster plant, pumpkins, radishes, rhubarb, turnips, beans, beets, celery, cress, endive, greens, leeks, lettuce, peas, squash, sorrel.

Meat should be eaten only once a day. Weak coffee and tea are allowed at breakfast. In the treatment of the constipation, if not relieved by the diet, a mild cathartic, such as cascara, can be employed. Yeast finds its most likely place in treatment in these conditions and, according to Dr. G. C. Andrews, in a recent textbook on dermatology, "seems of most benefit in cases where constipation requires relief."

Tonics are often employed with relief and in combination with cathartics. Arsenic and nuxvomica combined with rhubarb has been found especially valuable. Doctors are often asked about the value of vaccines, made from cultures of the pustules. In mild cases they unquestionably are beneficial. In chronic cases of long standing they do little if any good. The employment of thyroid extract and other glandular products has not proved of any demonstrable value.

As such treatment is expensive the patient should be warned against its limited usefulness.

Modern Women Imitate Men

—BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE—

"MISS LEE: For some time I have been reading your caustic remarks in defense of the present standard of conduct for women; I refer to the standard that women have adopted, and not that accorded to them by the people who think I am glad to mention in this connection that even I am aware that there are such rare creatures as women who think."

"It is one of the most disturbing factors in society that women have come down to equality with men. One of the greatest American ideas has been that of chivalry toward women. We men have placed womanhood on a pedestal and have struggled to make ourselves worthy of that which we have believed woman to be. But today we find that women choose rather to imitate men than to exalt them. And we discover that they choose for their imitative the sorriest type that can lay claim to being males of the genus homo."

"At college my room became a sort of forum, where men and women gathered in informal groups to discuss philosophy and sociology. I was one of those who defended women and urged boys who were disturbed or upset to cling to their faith that woman was something better than the common things of life. Now when I meet those who are married or those who became disgusted in time to escape the noose, I must face the reproach in their eyes and on their lips. They believe in me, but they know now what I do not know now, that most women love not with their souls, but with their bodies; that most women today are going about, exposing whatever they can of their sensuous figures that will appeal to those urges in men that are as base as the puny souls of the women I have known."

"I would have you know that I am neither a preacher nor an old bachelor, but a normal, healthy young man who is saying what millions of others are thinking, and who is lamenting that the only road open for honesty is that of a libertine.

"REGUSTED, L. H. B." Your letter is very interesting, but I cannot think you have been reading my column, for I am very sure I have not been upholding women who imitate the lower types of men.

I said women who smoke and drink are imitating the habits men have indulged in for centuries, and which they have always expected women to overlook.

I admit present styles, even in bathing suits, do not shock me. I have seen women in very elaborate dress—covered from head to heel—who were immodest and worthy of your remarks on that score, and I have seen girls frolicking on the beaches in scanty bathing suits who were delights to the eye of every clean-minded man and woman because they were so fine and unconscious of their bodies.

I think the modern girl is much less hypocritical than the old. Their standards and their conduct are a little different than my generation, but I assert confidently that it has changed mostly for the best.

I, too, number among my friends, young college people, and I assert most emphatically that their standards and ideals are higher, I really believe, than those of any preceding generation.

There are those (many, I am afraid) who have low moral standards, but they are not the majority. And I cannot help feeling that you and your disillusioned friends are either very blind or have had very sad and unusual experiences if you have not found women friends who are worthy of the most exalted chivalry.

Ways Of Reducing Are Scored

—BY GLADYS GLAD—

A new device has recently been introduced into London's heavier circles whereby those females who wish to reduce, but are too doggone lazy to exercise, can take off pounds without the great effort on their part. The device is a very simple one, and once it is set in motion the individual on it must exercise whether she wants to or not. And there's no rest for her until the supervisor who attends her thinks she has exercised enough, and stops the machine.

Now, it is not my intention to belittle this new lazy-man's contraption. The machine itself may be perfectly O. K. But it's the principle involved that bothers me. For in my estimation, things certainly have come to a pretty pass when we women have to have a machine to force us to exercise. I'd hate to think that we're actually that lazy! And I don't really think that we are.

Yet you'd be surprised to know how many women there are who do seem to have an aversion for reducing exercises. Oh, my, yes! They all want to reduce. And they're willing to diet. But somehow or other they can't seem to work up any enthusiasm about exercising. Of course, it may be due to laziness. But personally I think it's just because the majority of women do not realize how important a part exercise plays in a reducing routine.

There are three main reasons for the importance of exercise in a reducing routine. In the first place, exercise assists in the actual reduction of the body. You become fat because you eat more food each day than your body can use up. But if you exercise vigorously every day, you will use up more food, and there will not be so much left over to store itself in the form of fat on your body. Moreover, if you exercise each day, you will stimulate your circulation. And a brisk circulation carries off wastes, keeps the tissues active, and makes it impossible for fat to accumulate.

In the second place, exercise is absolutely necessary to strengthen the muscles of the body, so that they can correctly support the various organs that were previously supported by the disappearing fat. Ptois may result unless the weak abdominal muscles are strengthened sufficiently to enable them to hold the intestinal organs correctly in place.

And in the third place, exercise is essential in a reducing routine to mold the body on harmonious lines. If you do not exercise, you may find yourself becoming thin above your waistline, and remaining fat below, or vice versa. You must exercise, if you would keep your body firm, lithe and well-shaped while you are reducing.

I set my thumb against a knife's sharp blade. The blade slipped, and its steel cut deep into the flesh. There was sudden pain, and my flesh seemed to pause in shocked surprise. I snatched away the knife, and the red blood followed—and dripped, and gushed, and fell.

I poured iodine upon the wound, and it stung fiercely, and then I wrapped it in white gauze and tried to forget it. But all that day I bungled my work. My thumb throbbed and it

When Xenia Central gridders trot out on Cox field September 25 for their maiden effort of the football grid against the Blue Lions of Washington C. H., they will not have to contend with a few of the gridiron stalwarts who wore Washington uniforms last season.

The Blue Lions lost nine football players, including seven regulars, by graduation last spring. Among the missing stars are Elden Armbrust, a one-man football team himself, Edgar Barnett, Wallace Noon, Richard Cockerill, Tom Sever, Harold Beatty, Wallace Fite, Louis Evans and Herman Todhunter.

Gridders like Armbrust, Noon and Cockerill are not to be had merely for the asking, thus giving rise to the hope that the Buccaneers may repay Washington the latter part of this month for humiliations of recent years.

Perhaps September 25 may be Xenia's day of reckoning and again perhaps not because Washington invariably manages in some mysterious fashion to put a most formidable football combination out year after year.

Although minus the services of many old reliables, the Blue Lion squad includes a surplus of seasoned talent.

Washington gridders began practice last Monday with twenty-seven candidates reporting, one less than turned out last Tuesday for the Buccaneers squad. School starts this week at Washington and the squad personnel is expected to be raised to around forty.

Rainy weather and a delay in receiving new football equipment combined to handicap practice sessions of the pupils of Coaches Maurer and Cramer last week.

If there is safety in numbers, Sidney High should be one of the foremost contenders for the Miami Valley League grid title this fall.

Forty-five candidates have filed intentions of reporting for grid practice at Sidney and thirty hopefuls have already come out for early season drills.

Coaches Granville Robinson and Woolweaver are delighted with the response and look for a successful season. They expect to give every prospect a chance to show his merits.

The season's opener for the Rail-headers is with Hamilton Catholic September 26 at Julia Lamb memorial field at Sidney.

The All-Stars and Krippendorff softball teams are getting used to postponements of their post-season series games; in fact, the thing has become a habit and to make matters worse they arranged another all themselves ahead of time Saturday. The two teams went into a huddle and concluded that Labor Day is a misnomer and ought to be observed as a holiday. Consequently, the teams won't resume their play-off series until Tuesday night.

Xenia And Yellow Springs Win First Games

MERCHANTS DEFEAT OSBORN AS COUNTY TOURNAMENT OPENS

Jamestown Loses By 10-7; Get Another Chance Sunday

Xenia Merchants and Yellow Springs Athletics were victorious Sunday afternoon as the first round of play opened in the elimination series to determine supremacy in Greene County semi-pro baseball circles this season.

The Merchants, behind the four-hit pitching of Lamb, an Indian, defeated the Fulton Fords of Osborn, 3 to 1 on the Washington Park diamond, while the Athletics vanquished the Jamestown Merchants, 10 to 7, in a ten-inning contest at Jamestown.

Although beaten, Jamestown and Osborn are not eliminated from the series. A club must be defeated twice to be put out of the running.

The series will be resumed next Sunday with the two unbeaten clubs, Xenia and Yellow Springs, clashing at Washington Park, while Osborn visits Jamestown. It is certain that either Osborn or Jamestown will be eliminated next Sunday.

Pitcher Lamb, twirling for the Xenia Merchants, lacked control but was practically untouchable. He hooked up with Roulund, Osborn hurler, in a nice mound argument and allowed only four hits as compared with nine obtained off Roulund's delivery.

The Indian pitcher had six scalps to his credit in the form of strike-out, but was extremely liberal with passes, issuing five bases on balls besides hitting a batter. His inability to locate the plate in the sixth inning permitted the Fulton Fords to tally their solitary run and avoid a shutout. After the first two batters had been retired, Baker and Gross drew walks, the former scoring on a single by Sipe.

The Merchants gathered two runs in the fourth. Blake led off with a single, Clark was safe on an error by Nobling, second baseman, and Greer was retired on a grounder. Johnson inserted a single to center and another run came in when Schlosser went out to a grounder. Singles by Clark, Johnson and Schlosser accounted for the third and final Xenia marker in the sixth. Clark and Greer made two hits apiece for the Merchants. Baker contributed a single, a sacrifice and walked once for the visitors.

The Yellow Springs-Jamestown contest was a free-hitting affair, the Athletics assembling seventeen bingles while the Merchants garnered fourteen. Trailing by one run, Jamestown evened the score at 6 to 6 by scoring once in the last half of the ninth. In the tenth stanza, the Athletics were not retired until they had scored four times. The Merchants tried gamely in their half of the tenth, but one run was the best they could muster.

Buck Evans pitched the entire game for Jamestown. Stewart started on the knoll for the Athletics but was relieved by Brewer in the sixth. Curry, catcher, Day second baseman, and Confer, shortstop, each hit safely three times for Yellow Springs. Curry's hits included a brace of doubles and a double. Pickering, shortstop, with a single and a triple, and Trout, first baseman, with three hits, one a double, topped the Jamestown batting. The Athletics were charged with five errors and Jamestown made two wabbles.

Seventeen Years Long Time To Wait—But Ouimet Waited And Won Reward!

Ouimet's First Title

Here's how Francis Ouimet, new national amateur champion, appeared when he won his first national amateur crown in 1914. Francis was then a boy-wonder who had broken for the first time into big headlines the year before when he won the national open.

FINALS FOR TENNIS TOURNAMENT ARE HELD ON COURT MONDAY

The Misses Eleanor McKay, Margaret McKay and Mary Davidson and Mrs. Katherine Farrell reached the semi-final round in the feminine division and Hugh Espey, Edward Kraft, Andrew Frazer and Lawrence Hibbert are the survivors in the men's division as a result of their triumphs in the first and second round matches Saturday and Sunday in the singles tennis tournament at the Xenia Country Club.

Play in the semi-finals and final was scheduled for Labor Day morning and afternoon with Miss Eleanor McKay meeting Miss Davidson, Mrs. Farrell opposing Miss Margaret McKay. Espey playing Kraft and Hibbert matching strokes with Frazer.

Tournament scores over the week-end follow:
First Round
Women's division—Margaret McKay defeated Pamela Tilden, 6-4, 6-4; Eleanor McKay won from Mary Caroline Smith, 6-1, 6-0; Katherine Farrell beat Sarah Jane Kimmel, 6-0, 7-5.
Men's division—Tom Huston defeated Kathryn Hibbert, 6-1, 6-1; Hugh Espey beat William King, 6-3, 7-8, 6-2; Charles Weaver eliminated Clinton, 6-1, 5-7, 8-6; Lawrence Hibbert defeated William Eichman, 6-1, 6-1.

Second Round
Women's division—Margaret McKay beat Kathryn Hibbert, 6-1, 6-3; Mary Davidson defeated Margaret Davidson, 6-2, 6-3.
Men's division—Edward Kraft eliminated Tom Huston, 6-2, 6-4; Andrew Frazer defeated Charles Weaver, 6-4, 2-6, 8-6; Lawrence Hibbert beat George Hult, 6-3, 2-6, 5-7.

By WILLIAM RITT

SEVENTEEN YEARS! But what are seventeen years of striving and waiting when one's heart and courage, patience and endurance are those of a champion? Those seventeen years which stand between the first national amateur championship won by a scrawny kid named Francis Ouimet and the second and last title won by the brilliant Bostonian who is now a veteran, were the most dramatic years the world has ever seen. Between championships won by Ouimet a World War was fought—and all but forgotten! In 1914 when Ouimet won his first title at Ekwanok, defeating the great Jerome Travers, Connie Mack's old Athletics were roaring to their last conquest, the Boston Red Sox were trying out a kid pitcher named Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey was an unknown palooka fighting palookas, Knute Rockne was getting his first taste of helping coach a football team—he had graduated from Notre Dame in June of the same year; Johnny Doe, national tennis champ today, was six years old!

WHAT HAS OUIMET been doing all those years?

Well, the war temporarily put an end to his golf ambitions following his '14 victory. He returned to the big time in 1919 only to lose in the third round at Oakmont to Woody Plant!

Next year at Engineers he licked Tommy Armour, then a Scotch amateur; beat a kid named Bobby Jones of Atlanta, and lost in the final round to Chick Evans.

Jimmy Johnston stopped Francis in the second round of the 1921 tournament at St. Louis.

In 1922 he again fell in the second round, this time before Rudy Knepper, on the fairways of Brookline.

Flossmoor in 1923 saw him fall in the semi-finals.

Bobby Jones got his revenge in 1924 by defeating Ouimet at Merion in the semi-finals.

Two years later Ouimet again fell before Jones' magic putter, this time at Baltusrol. Again in the semi-finals.

Jones scored his third national amateur conquest of the Bostonian when he defeated Francis at Minikahda in the semi-finals in 1927.

For the seventh time Ouimet reached the semi-final round of a national amateur when he fell again to Jimmy Johnston at Pebble Beach in 1929.

At Merion last year Charley Koelsch beat Ouimet in the first round.

THERE'S THE story of seventeen years of Ouimet's gallant fight, of the seven times he fought his way to the brink of a championship which once was his only to see the title fade away each time until this year!

BOY HURT IN CRASH

An 8-year-old boy, Coy Walcott, suffered a cut on the right arm when an auto driven by his father, W. Walcott, 2016 Stegman Ave., Dayton, collided with a car operated by Horace Anderson, R. R. No. 1, Xenia, at First and Keowee Sts. in that city Sunday afternoon. It was reported to police. The injured boy was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by his father and treated there.

Men's division—Tom Huston defeated Kathryn Hibbert, 6-1, 6-1; Hugh Espey beat William King, 6-3, 7-8, 6-2; Charles Weaver eliminated Clinton, 6-1, 5-7, 8-6; Lawrence Hibbert defeated William Eichman, 6-1, 6-1.

Second Round
Women's division—Margaret McKay beat Kathryn Hibbert, 6-1, 6-3; Mary Davidson defeated Margaret Davidson, 6-2, 6-3.
Men's division—Edward Kraft eliminated Tom Huston, 6-2, 6-4; Andrew Frazer defeated Charles Weaver, 6-4, 2-6, 8-6; Lawrence Hibbert beat George Hult, 6-3, 2-6, 5-7.

CHILD IS SEVERELY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY HIT-SKIP AUTO

Frederick Baxley, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Baxley, 675 S. Detroit St., was in a serious condition Monday from injuries received when hit by a "hit-skip" motorist near his home Saturday at 5 p. m. The little boy received a fracture of the right leg between the knee and hip and concussion of the brain. He was knocked unconscious and has been only partly conscious since the accident.

Frederick and his sister, Muriel, 9, had been playing with children across the street from their home and the lad is said to have started back across the street and ran in front of the automobile going south. The driver did not stop after the accident.

W. E. Crawford, 688 S. Detroit St., only witness to the accident did not get the license number of the automobile. The little boy was removed to McClellan Hospital where the fracture was set and was taken to his home later in the evening.

JAY BURNETTE BATTING LEADER

Those softball players who wave their bats in a menacing manner from the forkhanded side of the plate appear to always give opposing pitchers more anxious moments than hitters of the right-handed variety. For example, a southpaw swatter was the topnotch batter on the Red Wing softball team this season, and the Red Wings were rather noted for their collection of vicious sluggers, Jay Burnette, shortfielder, is the individual of whom we speak. Jay had a season's mark of 366, banging out twenty-six hits, more than any other member of the team. Three of the blows were doubles and four were triples. The Red Wings had the second best team batting average with .267. Here is how the Red Wing batters fared this season:

HACK WILSON SUSPENDED BY CUB BOSSES; SALARY IS STOPPED

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Hack Wilson, leading home-run hitter in 1930, today stood under suspension by the Chicago Cubs for the remainder of the season. He will in all probability be traded so his Cub days are ended.

"Infraction of training rules," was the cause assigned by President William Veeck, who notified Wilson of the action when the team returned yesterday after taking six straight defeats by the Cincinnati Reds.

Pat Malone, pitcher, was given a heavy fine for "disorderly conduct and roistering," also as a result of an incident in Cincinnati.

At Des Moines it was announced that Mike Kreevick would report to the Cubs today to replace Hack. Hack's suspension will cost him $6,000 it was estimated, as he will draw no more pay. The exact figure was never announced but it was believed his salary contract this year called for at least $35,000.

Wilson has been in a batting slump since the first of the season. A year ago today Hack was leading the National League in home runs with forty-six and in runs batted in with 165. His batting average was .350 with 176 hits in 503 times up. Today his average stands at .261 with 103 hits in 394 times at bat, with thirteen home runs and sixty-six runs driven in. He hit fifty-six homers last year.

Hack was slated to be benched for good in New York ten days ago, it was learned last night, but Hornsby changed his mind when Hack made a club house speech asking for another chance and promising to mend his ways.

Hornsby and Wilson have been at variance all season. Hack was in a terrible slump and was frequently benched. It became apparent last week that Hornsby and William Wrigley, Jr., the club owner were through with the erstwhile slugger. That was when Bud Teachout, a pitcher, was put in Hack's place and Wrigley issued a statement saying Wilson would not be with the club next season.

Wilson came to the Cubs by draft from Toledo in the fall of 1926. He had been the property of the New York Giants but a clerical error made him subject to selection. The Cubs, in last place then, had first choice.

Wilson's batting averages with the Cubs were: 1927—.321; 1928—.318; 1929—.345; 1930—.356 and 1931—.261.

MARION, O., Sept. 5.—Savings of $44,524 to Marion County taxpayers during 1931-32 will result from the 10 per cent cut in salaries taken by county school teachers and other economies effected by combining classes and increasing the teacher load to eliminate eleven teachers, according to C. B. Rayburn, county superintendent of schools.

The Theater

Wild Winnie Lightner romps through a mad fandango of mirth reminiscent of "Gold Diggers of Broadway" and "Life of the Party" which is rolling the customers in the aisles at the Orphium, opening there Sunday and continuing Monday and Tuesday.

The piece is called "Gold Diggers of Broadway" and is just another opening for the laughable antics of this beloved comedienne. Warners gave her a good supporting cast, including that silly pair, Olsen and Johnson, who were side of "The Belko Behave" and "The Million Pound Note" and "The Great Dictator".

Robert Armstrong has a new kind of role in "Ex-Bad Boy", the Universal picture at the Orphium Friday and Saturday. Instead of the hard-boiled, worldly-wise man about town, Armstrong is a quiet-mannered broker who eventually comes through in the pinches to prove he's not such a wash-out. Jean Arthur has the leading feminine role and others in the picture are Jason Robards, Spencer Charters, Gracey Hampton, Lola Lane, Geo. Brent, Mary Doran, Tony Stabenau, Eddie Kane and Eddie Hearn. It is good comedy.

Lily Damita returned Saturday on the Bremen after a two-month holiday in Paris and was scheduled to leave at once for Hollywood to plan her next picture. Samuel Goldwyn expects to present her in an intimate musical screen play, probably in color. Her last pictures were for RKO, including "The Woman Between" and "The Sphinx Has Spoken."

CITY, VILLAGE, TOWNSHIP AND SCHOOL OFFICES TO BE FILLED

Xenia Picks Two Commissioners And Three School Board Members; Contests Loom For Many Offices Throughout Greene County

From a list of nearly 300 candidates, voters will choose office holders for city, village, township positions and city, county and township school board posts at the general elections in Greene County November 3.

Time for filing nominating petitions expired last Friday but the board of elections must wait for five days before meeting for the purpose of canvassing the sufficiency of the candidacy papers. The five-day interim is provided for by statute to permit an interval during which objections to any nominating petitions may be lodged with the board.

Xenia's who visit the polls election day will vote for three candidates for the city board of education from a field of five, and select two candidates for City Commission from three nominated at the August primary. Four commission candidates were nominated but one withdrew from the race, making the contest a three-cornered affair between I. S. Dines and Jacob Kany, present commissioners and Lawrence E. John.

A complete list of the 292 candidates enrolled for the city school board, county school board, township school boards, village and township offices follows:

Xenia City School Board
Charles A. Bone, Louis F. Clark, Dr. J. A. Yoder, Fred W. Lang and Carl E. Knisley.

Greene County School Board
J. B. Rife, Clifton and H. E. Bales, Jamestown, (no contest).

JOB GO BEGGING

PUBLIC offices in Clifton are going begging.

Citizens of the smallest village in Greene County will be required to write in the names of candidates for mayor, clerk, treasurer, marshal, council and school board when they visit the polls at the November 3 election.

Not a single candidate for any office at Clifton filed a declaration of candidacy with the board of elections. Nominating petitions for school board candidates were obtained from the board but were never returned.

Therefore, it will be necessary for Clifton voters to decide the matter for themselves and write in names of candidates at the election.

PARTITION SOUGHT HERE; FORECLOSURE ASKED; COURT NEWS

Partition or sale of real estate situated in Sugar Creek Twp. is the subject of a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by John W. Lamme and Laura M. Snyder against Minnie F. Thornhill, Lizzie B. Whittaker and Frank D. Lamme, the plaintiffs and defendants each being entitled to a one-fifth share in the property. It is claimed.

The plaintiffs, the petition avers, are two of the heirs of Francis M. Lamme, who died in April 1904, testate, and bequeathed all of his real estate to his wife, Mary F. Lamme, for the remainder of her life. At her death, the property was to pass to his children, Wesley Lamme, Lizzie Whittaker, Frank B. Lamme, Laura M. Snyder, Minnie F. Lamme and John W. Lamme.

Since the will was probated one of the sons, Wesley, unmarried, died, and it is claimed the plaintiffs and defendants, now the only living heirs of their father, are entitled to equal shares of the property. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

FORECLOSURE ACTION

Suit to foreclose mortgages totalling $30,000 on the Brownell farm in Beavercreek Twp. has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Carrie J. Brownell against John R. Brownell and Sue Harshman Brownell.

WINS DIVORCE

Viola Beahrt has been awarded a divorce from Aaron Beahrt in Common Pleas Court on grounds of willful absence from home for more than three years. She was ordered restored to her former name of Viola Goshorn.

APPROVE SALE

Sale of property to the plaintiff for $2,200 has been confirmed in the case of the Home Building and Savings Co. against Homer E. Harden and others in Common Pleas Court.

Denying partition, the court authorized public sale of property appraised at $50 an acre, a total of $5,640, in the case of Harry D. Smith, as executor, against Robert George Watt and others.

AWARD JUDGMENTS

The First National Bank, Osborn, has won a cognovit note judgment for $1,603.06 against L. F. Miller and T. Kauffman in Common Pleas Court.

Note judgment for $442.50 in favor of E. A. Oster, Yellow Springs, against L. F. Miller, has been granted.

FLYING GLASS CUTS WOMAN WHEN SEDAN AND TRUCK COLLIDE

Mrs. Vladimir Jurief, 10 W. McMicken Ave., Cincinnati, was treated at Espey Hospital for severe cuts over the right eye and on the neck received when the sedan driven by her husband collided with a truck on the Columbus Pike, six miles east of Xenia, late Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jurief were on their way to Columbus for a visit and the driver, after passing two other cars ahead of him, collided with a truck being driven west by W. E. Stolz, R. R. No. 1, Madisonville, O., who was returning from the Ohio State Fair at Columbus with a load of cows he had exhibited. Jurief, it was reported, was unable to swerve over to the correct side of the highway in time to avert the collision. Neither vehicle upset.

Drivers of both vehicles escaped injury. The Cincinnati couple expected to continue on to Columbus later that evening.

Sheriff John Baughn and Road Patrolman L. A. Davis investigated the accident.

Words can mean lots of things—but you can always trust your taste. If a cigarette tastes right, if it satisfies you right down to the ground, then it is right.

There are all kinds of tobaccos—some good, some not so good. And there's the Chesterfield kind—the best Turkish and the best Domestic that grows. Full-ripe, sun-cured, aged in Nature's thoroughgoing way—and as mild and smooth and sweet as sun-ripened fruit. Chesterfields taste right —because they are right. And something you can't taste—that's important too! The finest cigarette paper—so pure it burns without taste or odor!

And behind this unchanging good taste, all the resources of a great organization—men, money, science, experience. It takes them all to make a great cigarette, and they're all behind Chesterfield.

Your taste is dead right. Chesterfields do satisfy.

GOOD... they've got to be good!
